

Sinclair's manipulations are obvious. Forcing all of its stations to air something that is controversial violates the public's trust. The vast number of stations it carries demonstrates the need for the FCC to be diligent in preventing large conglomerates such as Sinclair from trying to use its stations as a mouthpiece for a particular viewpoint, political slant, or any other social issue held by a single individual within the company.

Sincerely,

Stacey Jackson